JFK Control Tower

Dear Mr. Morris:

I am writing in reference to the Air Traffic Controller Intern position posted by the Career Services Office at Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University. I am particularly excited about this opportunity because the John F. Kennedy Control Tower would be my dream placement facility. Over many trips to New York City, I have come to love the hustle and bustle that never stops. I am well aware of the 200+ departures and arrivals that happen every hour at JFK and I am often on the www.JFKTower.com website following up on current events.

I am a dedicated individual committed to fulfilling opportunity and earning success. Over the past several years I have been developing teamwork skills, deepening my understanding of the air traffic environment, and incorporating methods of handling stress. Through my participation in an international club and student government, I know the importance of not only completing personal work, but working as a team to achieve a common goal. I know what it is like to have several objectives, a limited amount of time, and different personalities with which to cooperate.

I have been majoring in Air Traffic Management with studies in the use of FARs, TRACON procedures of arrivals and departures, and work involving satellite airports. I also have a minor in Flight and my commercial license has helped me significantly in appreciating the reverse side of air traffic control. By maintaining a full course load, flight lessons, two jobs, and extracurricular activities, I have learned to manage not only my time, but also my stress. When burdened with multiple tasks and minimal time, I can prioritize and work through problems efficiently and effectively.

I am confident that these steps have prepared me well for the rigors of the air traffic control job and am eager to explain in person why I am the best candidate for this internship. Please contact me at 856-798-5232 or kkorman@erau.edu at your earliest convenience. Thank you in advance for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Katherine Korman
