Dear Mr. Mathers:

Since safety is so crucial within the aviation industry, I am eager to work with Maltese Airways to make your program one of the best.

I am a senior majoring in Safety Science at Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University where my coursework has included classes in Occupational Security and Emergency Planning, Safety Program Management, Aircraft Crash and Emergency Management, and Safety and Aviation Law. In addition, I have been flying for five years and have a Commercial Pilot Certificate with an Instrument rating and over 200 hours of pilot-in-command time. The ability to operate an aircraft has helped me with my studies in aircraft accident investigation.

As an industrial safety intern for DS Waters of America, I came to understand the importance of being observant and paying attention to detail and became more familiar with state, federal, OSHA, and EPA regulations. Managing more than one project simultaneously gave me the skills to manage my time in accomplishing tasks. As a Flight Dispatcher at Embry-Riddle, I assist students and flight instructors with the flight planning process, resolved logistical issues, helped enforce Federal regulations, and performed ramp inspections weather analysis.

My training, education, and experience can help Maltese with inspections and investigations, safety and security awareness, and training. I have great communication skills and an outgoing personality that helps me interact effectively with others. In applying these tools and skills at Maltese, I can assist in developing safety programs that will reduce costs and improve efficiency.

I have enclosed my resume to provide you with more information. I would welcome an opportunity to interview with you; please contact me at (820) 552-2785 or ahart@email.com. I appreciate your time and effort on my behalf and hope to hear from you in the near future.

Sincerely,

Angela Hart
